

YOUR YEARBOOK

A

Delmar

PUBLICATION
CHARLOTTE. N.C.

This is your yearbook. It is a record of treasured memories. It is a priceless keepsake that cannot be replaced. It will last a lifetime if treated with care. Handle it as you would any other new book. Open it first down the center and press gently with the palm of your hands. Then begin to open it to other places following the same procedure, until you have opened every page, from cover to cover. This will avoid undue strain on the binding.

Do not store your book close to extreme heat, such as a radiator or heat duct. Do not leave it lying in the hot sun; it is fresh off the press and must have time to cure thoroughly before it is handled too much. Avoid getting it wet. Paper will soak up water.

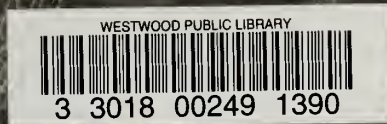

Any abuse will damage your book. Careful observance of these instructions will help to make your book a lasting record of happy memories. Good luck!

These Were Our...

FOREWORD...

As citizens of this twentieth century civilization, we are obligated to try our utmost to understand the complexities of our world. We cannot solve the many problems facing us by ignorance and violence; we must gain knowledge of the factors involved in the situations—whether objects, ideas, or people—and arrive sensibly at the best solution.

To symbolize this important idea of more knowledge for better understanding, we have chosen a Roman theme for our 1959 Green Years.

In ancient history, we find a powerful and lasting civilization beginning about 27 B. C. These people were the Romans—cultured, intelligent, yet strong and noble. They admired learned men and virile men equally, as we do today. Each man, in order to understand and solve his own problems, desired and sought all available knowledge of every phase of life. The Roman civilization exemplifies the knowledge and culture still so necessary for understanding.

"Mr. Mark"

We, the Class of 1959, proudly dedicate this yearbook to you, Mr. Markarian . . . for your understanding and patience .

Under your capable direction the Choral Groups, Band and Orchestra have performed successfully on numerous occasions. Because of your tireless efforts and endless patience, you have distinguished yourself and won the respect and affection of the student body.

...MR. MARKARIAN

ADMINISTRATION

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

In years to come when you look back at these pages and forgetfully remember what it was like in your school and your play, we hope that above all you will review those high ideals of Americanism, of truth, beauty, honor, and tolerance which your school has tried to teach. To the measure of your ability to appreciate those ideals, the measure of your success will be equal. Therein lies our sincerest wish for your happiness and success.

CLASS OF 1960

We now glance back at the Juniors who are coming along the road we have just traveled. They have hoped, planned, and worked for their final year at Westwood High School, much as we ourselves did. To them, the Class of 1960, and their successors, we extend our sincere wishes for their future happiness and success.

President, Robert Bradley; Vice-President, Edward Tripp; Secretary, Noel Stoodley; Treasurer, Brigid Kelleher.

Pat - Have fun with the others! Don't miss any more of those dressings! Get up cackling! You're in! Hope you go on to work all kind of contests! Love L.R.

AND THUS THE FATES DECREED

As we strutted to our classes in September, 1955, we were typical freshmen. We were short but cute, had great fun giggling at our friends' zany antics, and soon learned that . . . "Soap and education are not as sudden as a massacre, but they are more deadly in the long run."

As our freshman year began, some students attended the Colburn School; others, the present junior high. Despite the separation of the class it was the beginning of four successful and wonderful years.

At the first class meeting we managed—under the capable direction of our class advisors Mrs. Corsini, Mr. Meachem, and Mr. Marshall—to elect our officers. They were Alfred Doig, William Walker, Millicent Bacchieri, and Torsten Andersen.

This was the year we presented "Cupid's Holiday." With carefully chosen committees we began the preparations for the dance. We displayed colorful posters, hired an outstanding band, and decorated the hall beautifully. Then, in eagerness and anticipation, we awaited the eventful evening which came and went, and with it sixty dollars from our treasury. We had produced a "freshman flop."

As sophomores we were more intelligent than as freshmen, admired the seniors, and not infrequently could hear a classmate say . . . "I was gratified to be able to answer promptly, and I did. I said I didn't know."

The sophomore year opened with double sessions. However, this did not last long. On one cold, snowy blowy day just before the Christmas vacation, we marched, with our books and accoutrement, to the new high school.

Finally, with the use of maps and—right or wrong—the directions of other students, we found our homerooms, classrooms, washrooms, and, most important, the cafeteria.

This year Edward Portman, Alfred Doig, Millicent Bacchieri, and Jane Corcoran were chosen to represent us.

Two lively dances were sponsored by us during this year. With the help of our class advisor, Miss McMillan, both "Skeleton Shuffle" and "Spring Swing" were very successful. We were happy to see our financial status rise. We now had ten cents in the treasury.

Finally we became upperclassmen—jovial juniors. We were more studious, eager to be seniors, and acknowledged the fact that . . . "Knowledge and timber shouldn't be used 'til they are seasoned."

When we got back to the "old grind," we elected our class officers: Edward Portman, Alfred Doig, Millicent Bacchieri, and Torsten Andersen. Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Valentine, Mr. Atchue, and Mr. Kehoe served as our class advisors.

As juniors, we realized that our treasury lacked an essential item—money. We decided to remedy the situation. We presented a play. On opening night all went well. However, on the following night, as the play advanced into the second act, the characters realized—much to their horror—that information disclosed in the second act was supposed to be revealed in the third. What a predicament! But never let it be said that a junior classman couldn't find a solution. As the curtain closed at the end of Act II, Ken and Forbes dashed backstage, grabbed the script, rewrote the act, and, as the curtain opened to begin Act III, the actors appeared calm, cool, and collected.

Throughout the junior year the college preparatory students flexed their mental muscles in Boston University, National Merit, College Aptitude and Achievement examinations. Tests, Tests, Tests! Would they never end!

One morning the girls decided to break the monotony of conformity. Some wore a combination of red, orange, and purple; others devilishly displayed their outfits of prints, plaids, and polka dots. All the girls were decked out in the greatest array of pins, beads, necklaces, and bracelets. This was "Clash Day."

Our prestige was enhanced by the accomplishments of Kenneth Manly and Forbes Little in winning the State Science Fair Awards.

The "Heavenly Eleven," in honor of the football team was the first dance sponsored this year. The second was the Prom. The cherry blossoms and the flower garden with the wishing well presented a most beautiful and Oriental atmosphere. We called it "Shangri-la." The Prom highlighted another successful year at Westwood High School.

As seniors we realized that . . .

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound;

But we build the ladder by which we rise

From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,

And we mount to its summit round by round."

Finally, we were the seniors of Westwood High School. This was THE year.

As officers for the senior class we elected Edward Portman, President; Alfred Doig, Vice-president; Millicent Bacchieri, Secretary; and Torsten Andersen, Treasurer. Our advisors were Miss Burns and Mr. Pierce.

For the past few years Westwood has contributed to the American Field Service Program. The P. T. A. has donated funds annually to permit a student from a foreign country to spend the school year here. The high school members also have responded enthusiastically. We have sponsored work weeks, sold bonds, and this year devoted one day to diversified activities. We had a car wash, a food sale, a dinner and a dance. As a result of this co-operation, hard work, and the joy of anticipation, we welcomed this year from Denmark, Peter Spanner. We have found him to be friendly, jovial, and studious. He beats a booming drum in the band. His jitterbugging is "real cool." It has been a pleasure to have known him as a member of the senior class.

In exchange, Betsy Beale sailed for Italy in August. A going-away party was held at Sandy Poirier's prior to embarkation. Betsy was the first A.F.S. student from Westwood to participate in this exchange during the school year. She returned in January brimming with tales of her delightful experiences.

We have now come to the finale of our high school years—graduation. Some students plan to continue their education; others to begin a career. Whatever course we follow we will always remember the four wonderful years spent here. In leaving, we wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Chase and the faculty for their patience, understanding, guidance, and instruction; and to the future seniors we extend all happiness and success—hoping their memories will be as pleasant as ours, the class of 1959.

CLASS POEM

As the pages of life are passing us by,
We'll always remember our own Westwood High.
Though our friends and our teachers we leave with regret,
We look forward to futures with characters set.

The fun and the joy of being together,
The work and the toil that is with us forever—
This work is not wasted, nor joys are they lost,
If squarely we face each venture we cross.

To us these last years will always remain
All the more lovely for friendships attained;
And though each will depart and go his own way,
We will never forget what we've learned here each day.

As the last of our yearbook pages we turn,
And look forward to goals which each one must earn,
We pray that our new new years will hold for us all
Such numerous pleasures as those we recall.

—by Sandra and Judith Hunter

CLASS SONG

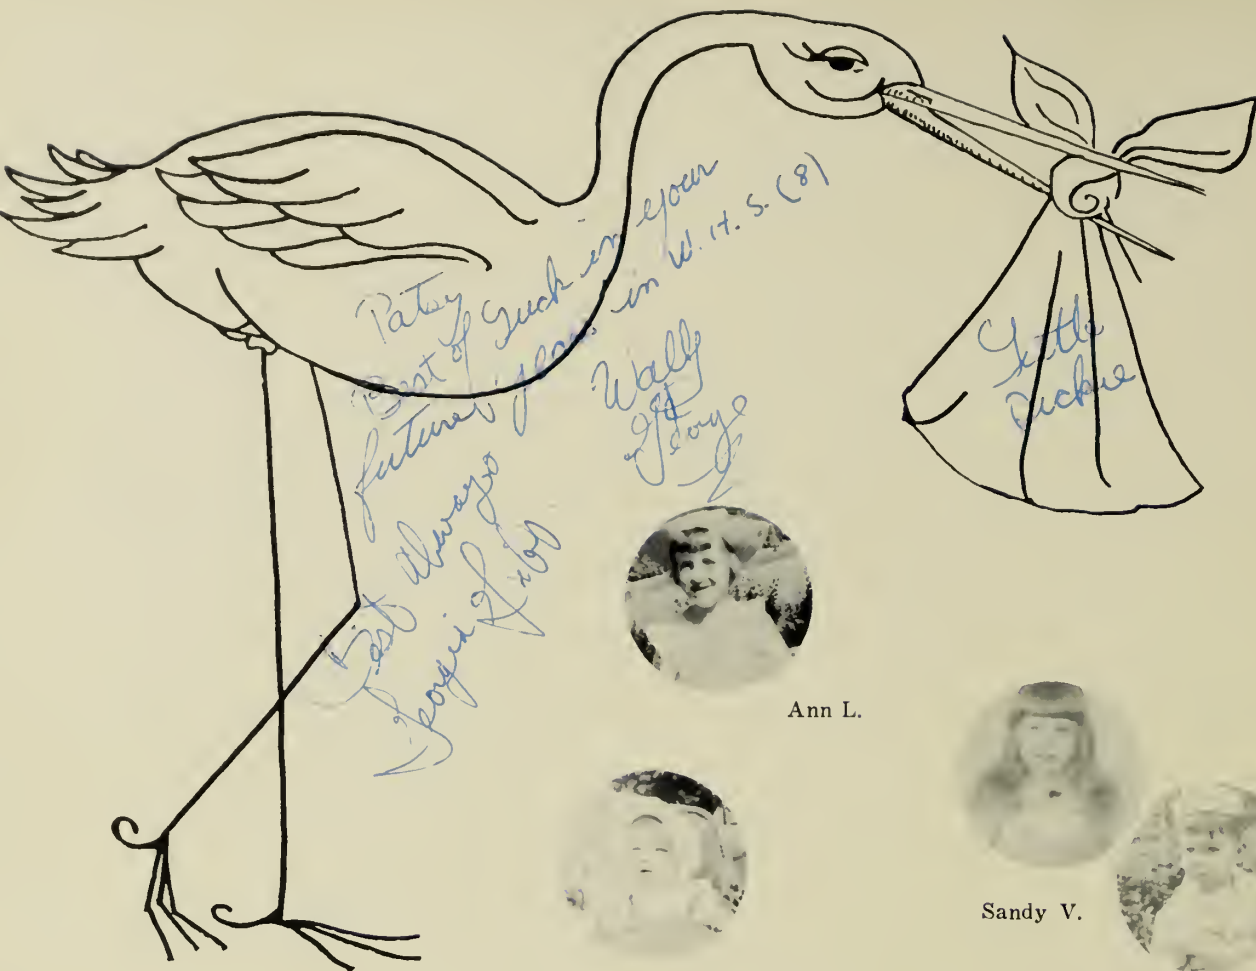

*How swiftly the old year passes,
Quickly the days depart,
Mem'ries of all our classes
Stay to sadden each heart.
We'll never forget our teachers
Guiding us through the years;
Sing we a fond farewell to
Those we hold so dear.
On, on to the future,
Go we unafraid
To face whate'er our life holds,
Never dismayed.
On where life may lead us
As the future unrolls;
Faith, guiding us onward,
Draws us nearer our goals.
On through blackest night
Though trials and misfortunes o'erwhelm us,
On to greater joys
Where happiness for us awaits.
On, on to the future,
Bright stairs are gleaming
Inspiring us on,
On to our destiny.
We're leaving our friends behind us,
Never to meet again;
Hearing of them reminds us
Of all the things we did then.
When we worked so hard together,
Sharing with those so near;
Sing we a fond farewell to
Those we hold so dear.*

AND THUS SPAKE CASSANDRA

Have you ever had a dream so extraordinary and vivid that you could swear it was real? Well, I have! I dreamed that I had returned to Westwood after several years' absence. It was a shock to realize that all the familiar surroundings were completely transformed. It seemed to have slipped back into the time of the Roman Empire. Lost in these bewildering surroundings, I came upon PENNY BACCHIERI, who seemed to be equally confused. We decided to join forces, and from this time forth we were the inseparable team of Bacchieri and Jones. To our surprise, the Town Hall was replaced by the Roman Forum and market place, while our old football field was now the site of the Colosseum. As we proceeded along the Appian Way (formerly known as High Street), an elaborate public bathhouse came into view. We were startled to discover that this was where Danny's, the familiar landmark, had once stood. Intrigued by this extraordinary building, we entered, and two bathhouse attendants dressed in the traditional stola and palla greeted us. "Well, if it isn't TASKA WAKEFIELD and PATTY RUSSELL!" we exclaimed. The girls informed us that we had arrived just in time to see some of our other classmates perform a water ballet. While waiting in anticipation for the show to begin, we saw the HUNTER and SHIERE twins lifting enormous weights for exercise. The show began, and whom did we see but NANCY MEYER, SUZZANNE HAGGMAN, LINDA HAYES, and ANN LALLY. After watching this graceful performance, we left the bathhouse in search of further amusement. Stepping into the street, we were almost demolished by a green Cadillac chariot driven by SARAH SMITH, which was followed by a miniature red and white donkey cart, owned and operated by GAIL ANDERSON. When we shouted angrily, the girls jumped out and apologized profusely. They explained that they were just having an innocent "drag" race and offered us a ride. However, preferring a safer mode of transportation, we continued strolling along the road.

Rounding the corner, we found KENNY MANLY working industriously with his worthy assistant, WILLIAM HULBIG. They were in charge of keeping the Cloacus Maximus (Rome's largest sewer) spotless. This magnificent structure was designed by FORBES LITTLE.

Next on the agenda for the day was a visit to the arena. As we approached the gates, we found DAVID McCUSKER, who was deeply involved in his highly specialized profession of punching tickets. KAREN BECK was meticulously collecting the little circles that were flying as David punched the tickets.

Karen seriously explained that she was collecting them for the confetti stand she owned.

After leaving Karen, we ascended the stairs to get a bird's eye view of the coming activities. Once seated, our roving eyes were caught by two dignified gentlemen sitting a few rows behind us. Looking closely, we realized that they were our former classmates, DAVID PATTERSON and STEPHEN FORD, who were now generals in command of the Roman armies. Looking down, we saw BILLY JONES, spreading sand, and GARY LENNON, madly smoothing the sand behind him.

With a flourish of trumpets, the proceedings began. DWIGHT KELSEY, wearing a crimson robe with the words "Crazy Legs Kels" inscribed across his chest, shambled into the center to meet his opponents, EDIE BROWN and BUDDY TOWNE. Each competitor was very eager to win, for the petite princess DEBRA CERRONE was to be given in marriage as a reward. After a neck-and-neck struggle, "Crazy Legs" emerged victorious, and his famous knees knocked at the thought of his prize. Just then, we were distracted by a hoarse bellowing in our ears. We turned around expecting to see someone directly behind us but discovered that it was JOAN BJARNASON sitting ten rows away. Seated beside her was DONNA CORSINI, her partner through thick and thin. They were employed by the city of Rome as street cleaners. They were excited because DAVID MAGEE (or Point) and JOHN MORRISON, Rome's famous gladiators, had just entered. However, this wasn't the main attraction, for dashing frantically between them was CLAUDIA MAFERA, like a minute Italian beetle between two massive horses.

Leaving the arena, we set out to see the Forum and the bustling market place. On entering, we heard the strident voice of FLORENCE FISHER, who was trying to compete with ELAINE DUNLAP in selling fish. After being pushed and swayed by a large group of people, we found ourselves in the center of the Forum. We were astonished to see HENRY RICHENBURG, a distinguished auctioneer, trying to sell LYNNE SMITH, PHYLLIS THOMPSON, and ANN ABERNATHY to anyone who would have them. Wandering further on, we met BETSY BERNSEN twisting pretzels while she sang her theme song "I Love Pretzels." Her assistants, MARCIA TUELLS and VIRGINIA O'REILLY, were rolling the dough and distributing the salt, speck by speck. Next to them were JOHN CAMPBELL and JOHN VIOLA dressed as magicians. They were trying in vain to sell jet-propelled flying carpets, which were the ingenious inventions of KENNY PRATT and JOHN RECKS. However, DONALD MAGUIRE and JOHN ZIERGIEBEL were the only ones crazy enough to try them. Attracted by a melodious voice, we listened to SANDRA POIRIER, who was trying to sell chariot tops. Also listening to her was PEGGY LEE, trying to control her noisy brood of five children. Adding to the general excitement and confusion were two of the most confused Romans we had ever seen, VIRGINIA HAERING and JOAN GURVITCH, trying to sell bottomless wine glasses.

Coming from one corner of the market place, we heard weird, off-key sounds. Investigating this situation, we found CAROLE HAYES frantically waving a baton while attempting to lead a small group of musicians. This talented group was composed of JANET BYRON and JEWEL BLAND playing violins, JANE CORCORAN playing the flute, and SUSAN CASSIDY on the bass fiddle. A trio of former Double Quartet members, MARIE CHRISTIANSEN, ALFRED DOIG, and BOB CHENERY, tried valiantly to find the right note.

The climax of the morning was finding "DOC" PORTMAN advertising his newest miracle tonic. It was supposed to be a sure-fire cure for a lonely heart. KIP CHILD was assisting Eddie by chewing the bottle caps off the samples. One of the prospective buyers was MEREDITH BARNARD, who had strayed from her job as fountain polisher to listen to Eddie. Behind the scenes, we found PETER NEYLAND and CHESTER MITCHELL mixing the ingredients for the miracle tonic. The recipe was as follows: two ounces of moonlight, eight measures of romantic music, one tall, irresistible male or one gorgeous girl, as the case may be. Mix well, and hope for the best!

That evening MARGARET KUHN and her husband ALLAN MOSELY cordially invited us to spend the night at their farm. We awoke the next morning to find a peasant girl, SNOOKY HUBBARD, chasing a pig through our bedroom. She was catching it for JAMES GUJOD, the overseer who had demanded fresh bacon for breakfast.

Later that morning, we visited the different parts of the farm. In the kitchen we found the cooks, FRANCES HEGWOOD and JEAN SHANNING, un-stringing the string beans. Their helpers were LEO MADDEN, official pot cleaner, and ROBERT JACKSON, floor and ceiling scrubber. PHILLIP BRENNAN, the garbage collector, ran continuously between the kitchen and the pig's domain. Other members of the household were COBINA WEBSTER and ELAINE ARPE, sandal polishers, and PAT PANEK and MAUREEN MURRAY, who had latrine duty.

Searching for fresh air, we walked down the path that led to the vineyard. Here we found WILLARD COOKSON, a grape peeler, JOSEPH EOSCO, a seed extractor, and JOHN MASON and MARK MAXFIELD, who were professional grape stampers. At the end of the production line were RICHARD MCGOLDRICK and GORDON FOSTER, who were employed as wine tasters. Then we came upon the olive grove, where we met MARION TYLER drilling the holes in the olives, while FRANCES RORK stuffed the centers with pimento.

I soon saw another familiar personality, DAVID FOSTER. He informed us that there was to be a banquet at the palace in honor of WILLIAM WALKER'S recent election as consul. Since David was very influential, he invited us to attend this occasion. Arrayed in our finest attire, we entered the palace of the tyrannical emperor, FRED WHITE.

Seated around the table were all the emperor's favorites and the higher officials. Among these were WILLIAM RICKER, the famous orator, JOYCE PERO and SANDY

 To MELINA LANDON—a book of excuses. These will get you out of anything!
 To MARGARET LEE—an Indian headdress. Let’s hope next Thanksgiving isn’t so windy.
 To GARY LENNON—a Boston accent.
 To FORBES LITTLE—a dump truck and a bulldozer to move that fertile soil you own in Norwood.
 To LEO MADDEN—a cowboy outfit. We hear you are one.
 To CLAUDIA MAFERA—two pillows to sit on when you drive.
 To DAVID MAGEE—a new set of car keys. Yours should be given a rest.
 To KENNETH MANLY—another electrical part for your science project.
 To JOHN MASON—a box of “Cheer” to typify your good nature.
 To MARK MAXFIELD—a feather in your cap for all the work you did on the Prom.
 To DAVID McCUSKER—a reserved parking space at the drive-in.
 To RICHARD McGOLDRICK—Mephistopheles as your guardian.
 To DONALD McGUIRE—a bottle of champagne. This matches your sparkling wit and humor.
 To DONNA MENTE—brakes for your car. Use them, will you?
 To NANCY MEYER—a well-behaved Sunday School class.
 To CHESTER MITCHELL, JR.—a basketball to remind you of your years on Westwood’s team.
 To JOHN MORRISON—a “tease-free” English class.
 To BARBARA MORTON—a destroyer to keep up with her favorite ship.
 To ALLAN MOSLEY—a book of Shakespeare so you won’t get him mixed up with Chaucer.
 To MAUREEN MURRAY—your own private telephone to carry on those l-o-n-g conversations.
 To CYNTHIA NAGLE—a “Do-it-yourself” jewelry kit.
 To PETER NEYLAND—a free ski trip to the Swiss Alps.
 To CARLENE OLSON—new tonsils to replace the ones you lost.
 To VIRGINIA O’REILLY—a temper to go with your red hair.
 To PATRICIA PANEK—some roller skates so you won’t have to work so hard playing basketball and tennis.
 To DAVID PATTERSON—a new “Hot-rod” so your old one can fall apart in peace.
 To JOYCE PERO—a silver cup for all those laughs you gave us.
 To SANDRA POIRIER—new tiles for your party-won floor.
 To EDWARD PORTMAN—a pair of drumsticks. Let’s see you hit success with a bang.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Edney, the drill team has added color to the football halftime activities. Much of the credit for their clever routines goes to their commander, Kae Gleason.

COLOR GUARD

The Color Guard, made up of Martha Shiere, Melina Landon, Jewel Bland and Mary Shiere, was an attractive addition this year, with its new Westwood flag at the head of the band.

MAJORETTES

One of the high spots at football games is the colorful entertainment provided by the Majorettes. Led by Head Majorette Carole Hayes and Trick Twirler Carole Ann Jones, they devise all their own intricate routines. The Majorettes won first place in the Dedham Competition and more victories are certain to follow.

BIOLOGY CLUB

The Biology Club, under the direction of Mr. Sarris, was divided into various groups; the bacteriology group with David Foster as chairman, the general dissecting group with John Campbell as chairman, and the cat anatomy group with Marilyn Stewart as chairman. These groups, aided by numerous field trips and special projects, worked separately towards their respective goals. Under the leadership of David Foster as president, this club has done much to stimulate interest in botany and zoology.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club, headed by Mr. Sarris, accomplished much this year. The Club met every Tuesday and Friday during A Period under the supervision of Kenneth Manly and Forbes Little. The Chemistry Club started the year with qualitative and quantitative analysis. Among various projects the groups undertook were making soap, the removal of caffeine from tea, glass etching, and work in photography.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club, directed by Mrs. Eaton, had a very active program during its first year. By meeting at the homes of various members in the club, much fun was had by all while accomplishing worthwhile work. The members enjoyed Christmas caroling and movies which increased their knowledge of French life; the public was invited to the one-act plays given by Le Cercle Francais. The president, Noel Stoodley, helped make a very successful year for the new French Club.

GERMAN CLUB

The purpose of the German Club, under the guidance of Mrs. Valentine, is to further student knowledge of German customs and traditions and promote interest in German life.

Among the many activities enjoyed this year were informal discussions on German arts and various activities.

Officers of the German Club this year were: Lee Henry, president; Betty Swist, vice-president and social chairman; Janet Byron, secretary.

Far enough!

Block that pass!

The "58" Wolverines were under the expert guidance of Coaches Reis and Davis and followed the inspiring leadership of co-captains Ed Brown and Jack Fletcher. The enthusiasm which was shown by the student body this year gave the gridsters motivation for success. This season's record of 3-5-0, against rough opposition, must be a great satisfaction to Coach Reis in his first year at Westwood.

Up for the rebound!

The Westwood High School basketball team won their last game of the season, 71 to 55 against Foxboro, after losing their first seventeen games. The last two games of the season were Westwood's best. They lost to a strong King Phillip team 67-60 and they defeated Foxboro 71-55.

Dwight Kelsey was the leading Westwood scorer with 149 points. In addition to being the high scorer, he was a solid defensive player throughout the season. Jack Fletcher was right behind Dwight with 139 points for the season. Jack set up many fine plays with his precise passing. Third high scorer was John Ralton with 130 points and John Cookson followed with 109 points. Bob Chenery was a good offensive rebounder and defensive player.

Chet Mitchell was the leading scorer and rebounder on the Junior Varsity squad.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The 1958-59 girls' basketball team, under the supervision of Mrs. Edney, has played a fabulous season in an effort to erase the good but not excellent record of past seasons.

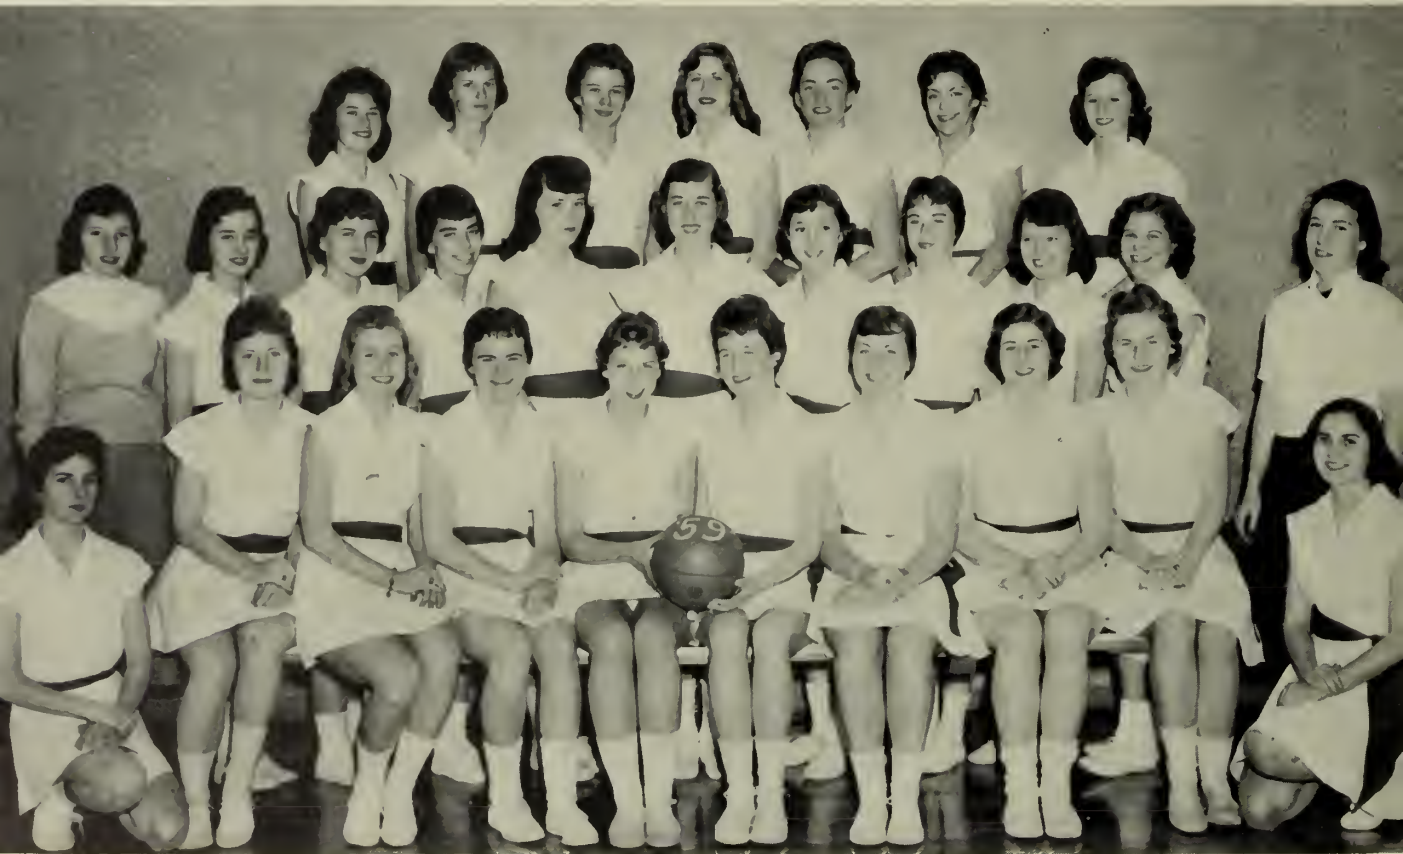

Although this season did not result in an undefeated one, the girls did a terrific job. The victory of all but the first game made the season a truly successful one. Credit is due to Snookie Hubbard and Claudia Mafera who have done an outstanding job of guarding for their 4 years at W.H.S.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

The girls' softball team, under the supervision of Mrs. Edney, played an outstanding season. Although the season did not end undefeated, the fine record reflected the wonderful spirit and enthusiasm shown by the team.

When the season was past the half-way mark, the team had won four games and was determined to keep up the spirit.

The green and white ended the year victoriously with a 6-2 record.

FRED WHITE leaves his harem to Joseph Schreiber.

JOHN ZIERGIEBEL leaves his last name to anyone who can spell it.

PROPHECY

AUBREY, the palace gossips, and DONNA MENTE, the efficient palace secretary. Seated on either side of the emperor were TORS- TEN ANDERSEN and PETER SPANNER, illustrious ambassadors to Denmark. Another important personage was BETSY BEALE, who had just returned from a good-will tour of Carthage. There was a sudden commotion, and we turned to discover that TEDDY BALABANIS, one of the servants, had spilled wine all over SANDRA SWANSBURG'S magnificent robe. She was terribly disturbed for it was an exclusive CYNTHIA NAGLE creation. Just as things got settled, DON- ALD HART (better known as Harti-Dart), came rushing in. He shouted triumphantly that he had won at dice for the first time in ten years. Now he only owed JACK FLETCHER, a famous professional gambler, 1,959 denarii.

During dinner we were entertained by the court dancers, who were selected for their grace and beauty. They were SANDRA VAN- DERWAL, KAE GLEASON, CARLENE OLSON, and CAROLE SKULLEY. The girls were accompanied by BETTY SWIST, a tal- ented musician, playing the harp and CHARLES SYVERSON playing the trumpet. This combination, in our school days, would have been called a "monster foul." At this time MELINA LANDON, the choreograph- er, arrived. She apologized for being late and explained that her housekeepr, CAROL BRANN, had failed to awaken her from her afternoon nap.

At that moment, there was a sudden com- motion. BARBARA MORTON came dash- ing in shouting, "To arms, to arms, the Carthaginians are coming!" Instantly the palace fell into utter confusion and chaos. Not wanting to become involved in a war, we hurriedly left the palace, climbed into our chariot, and departed in a cloud of dust.

As the curtain fell on this dream, we left Westwood and this prophecy behind us.
